

Mac's Monthly Advice!

Sometimes I find some yummy treats that get left out on the table after a meal or a party. Nothing beats free vittles!

Are you leaving money on the table? If you put some of your hard-earned money into a 401k plan, good for you. If you are fortunate enough to have an employer who will match your 401K contribution that's even better! If you aren't taking full advantage of this opportunity from your employer, you are most definitely leaving money on the table. It's important to contribute up to the maximum amount of the employer match, or as close to it as you can financially manage without ruining your budget. If you aren't already taking advantage of this great, easy way to increase your ROI (return on investment) for you and your family, make that change right away. Your future self will be glad you did!
